MORGAN COUNTY'S JAIL IS OVERHAULED

Plea Of State Official For Improvement Is Answered

CATTLE DIPPING UP ONCE MORE

County Makes Protests Against Necessity Of "Policeing"

The Morgan County Board of Revenue will complete its work for this month today, members of the board stated this morning. Outside of allowing the usual number of bills and disallowing some the board has heard a number of reports concerning county activities including reports from the county health department and from the county farm agent, J. C. Ford.

It was announced the county jail is now being overhauled and cleaned up with considerable new paint spread on the inside walls of the structure.

The board has addressed a communication to state authorities complaining against the necessity of Morgan County, which has gotten rid of the cattle tick, policing against cattle of other surrounding counties where no efforts have been made to eradicate the cattle tick.

In dealing with the road construction work now in progress, the board ordered one contractor to repave a short strip of roadway on the ground that his company had not properly asphalted the road some months ago. An agent of the company complained it, it is said, has agreed to obey the mandate of the court at once and resurface the strip of road in question.

The board will ask the summer session of the state general assembly to make a law which will be more explicit as touching the right of the county board to compel roadways to be worked in case the law with respect to the repair of roads is not complied with it was stated by a member of the board this morning.

GOVERNOR'S VISIT IS DELAYED FOR TIME

Brandon Will Speak In Twin Cities On Night Of June 21st.

EXECUTIVE HAD CONFLICTING DATE

It's Found Impossible To Reconcile Dates With Eufaula

The joint meeting of the Albany-Decatur Chamber of Commerce and the Morgan Kiwanis club set for Thursday night, June 28 and speak, according following a meeting of leading members of both organizations.

The change in date was caused by the action of Governor W. W. Brandon in deciding to keep an engagement made almost a year ago to visit Eufaula on Thursday of this week.

It was stated by the governor over long distance phone that his engagement with Eufaula people was in connection with a three days homecoming celebration held in Eufaula this week. The governor's understanding being that he was to speak in the South Alabama city on Wednesday of this week, which arrangement left him free to be in Albany and Decatur Thursday.

Very recently advices from Eufaula received by Governor Brandon in Montgomery stated that the people of that city understood the chief executive would visit them on June 14 and that all of South Alabama had been so informed.

It is said the Governor agreed that he had said he would attend the homecoming week ceremonies at Eufaula, but that his understanding was that he was to be in the city on Wednesday, also reports are that the Governor did all possible to arrange his trip to the southern part of the state so as to return here by tomorrow night, all to no purpose.

When it was found impossible to change the date fixed by Eufaula people for entertaining the governor, a number of informal conferences were held relative to the best thing to do under the circumstances—whether to go ahead with the meeting Thursday evening or wait for the governor.

Objection was strong to making any change except as to a speaker to take the place of the governor as arrangements had been completed, and also because to move the date forward would conflict with the plans of the Cooper-Wells company where the speaking was to take place. It was pointed out that this company expected to formally open the hosiery mill on the 23rd of the month and that hence machinery would occupy the mill within a few days.

It was practically settled at one time to go on with the big meeting Thursday night with A. G. Patterson or others as speakers, but finally when it was found that Governor Thursday night June 28 and speak, accompanied by Mr. Patterson, and when it was found plans could be made for a good meeting place, leaders of the two civic bodies unanimously agreed this morning to hold the joint meeting Thursday evening June 28.

Full details of the rearranged program will be given out soon, it was announced this morning.

SHIP CREW STILL ROWS OVER WINE

Steamer France Will Return To America Captain Declares

(Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, June 13.—Informal negotiations initiated by the state department with various maritime powers contemplate a solution on a reciprocal basis solution of the ship liquor question through exercise of the treaty making power of the government.

American officials, it was revealed today, see in this method an opportunity to eliminate in conferences the inconveniences to ships within the three mile limit the effect of the law, while at the same time the hovering fleet of rum runners off the American coast may be broken up through extension by treaty agreement of the right of search for this specific purpose, up to the three mile limit.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Nearly half the crew of the French line steamer France served notice on their captain as the vessel sailed today that they will refuse to make another trip to America on her unless arrangements are made so they could get the two litre ration of wine provided by French law.

The captain said he would return if he had to get a new crew from the French merchant marine college.

Local Talent Play Pleases Audience

The presentation of Mrs. and Mr. Polly Tickk' at the Princess Theater last night was a unique and snappy success. There have probably been more spectacular amateur performances staged here but for real dramatic art and beauty of costume and setting this play stands unparalleled in the history of local amateur theatrical efforts.

The entire play was attractive, but especially beautiful were the prologue and the grand finale. To give special mention of those who performed well would be to name the entire cast.

Without the chorus girls the play could never have been the wonderful success it was. Eight pretty and enthusiastic girls from Albany and Decatur, with intensive training of one week only, and in beautiful costumes, gave variety and pep to the play and all needed support to the "hubbies and their wives." The knitting chorus and the Indian dance by these girls were especially beautiful and artistically done.

Several characters had to be substituted almost at the last minute, and much credit is due all those who proved such successful emergency material.

Miss Virginia Street of the Peerless Lyceum and Chautauqua Company was the director.

REHEARSAL CALLED OFF.
There will be no rehearsal of the Albany-Decatur concert band this evening as originally planned, due to the calling off of the meeting at the new Cooper-Wells mill which was set for Thursday night.

SPECIAL RAATE OFFERED.
On account of the Baptist assembly at Mentone near Chattanooga, the Louisville & Nashville railroad will put reduced fare tickets on sale, it was announced this morning.

SUNRISE TO SUNSET FLIGHT IS PLANNED BY AIRMAN

Lieutenant Russell Lowell Maughan the holder of the world's record for aviators, has announced his determination to attempt a flight between New York and San Francisco "between sunrise and sunset." His record is 248.5 miles an hour. He won the Distinguished Service Cross during the war by accounting for four enemy airmen.

DIVIDEND PAID BY TENNESSEE VALLEY

The advisory board of the Tennessee Valley Banking Company, composed of Clyde Hendrix, W. W. Fustell, J. C. White, F. H. Pointer, S. A. Lynne, G. D. Williamson, J. B. Lagomarsino, of Sheffield and John F. Proctor of Scottsboro, held a meeting at the bank's home office in Decatur yesterday, when regular routine business was attended to.

One important action taken was the declaring of a regular 5 per cent semi-annual dividend and a special semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent, both dividends to be paid to stockholders June 30.

CITY WATERWORKS CLOSED BY WATERS

Thousands Homeless As Wide Section Is Inundated Today

FURTHER DAMAGE IS ANTICIPATED

Towns Down River Are Beginning to Feel Effects Of Flood

(Associated Press.)
TULSA, Okla., June 13.—Floodwaters of the Arkansas river fastened their hold on Tulsa and vicinity early today, after a race of death and destruction through Southern Kansas.

With the stream still coming up the most disastrous flood in the history of the city had been recorded.

The city waterworks plant was forced to close at 1:30 this morning, leaving Tulsa virtually unprotected against fire.

Desperate efforts were being made to keep the plant of the Oklahoma Power company from being flooded.

Water covered most of West Tulsa where some of the biggest oil refineries in the country are located. With water creeping up to the bellows of the Texas refinery it was shut down at midnight. Work also stopped at the other plants.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 persons have been rendered homeless, most of them suburban dwellers.

It is estimated that 1,000 persons have been driven out of West Tulsa. The refugees are being cared for here and in Sand Springs.

Only one death has been reported. A negro was killed when he dived from a bridge and struck his head on a sharp object.

The Arkansas river rose steadily. At 1:30 o'clock this morning a stage of 19.5 feet was recorded. A further rise during the day of 18 inches was possible, the local weather bureau announced.

Towns down the river already have felt the effects of the high water. Jenkins reported backwater encroaching on the business section.

Bixby, farther down, was partially under water but no serious danger was threatened.

Muskogee reported the Arkansas approaching floodstage and farmers moving to higher ground.

The Grand river, which joins the Arkansas near Muskogee, also was nearing flood stage.

With water lapping over the levees near Fort Gibson fear was felt for the $1,000,000 plant of the Oklahoma General Power company now under construction.

CHINA'S PRESIDENT LEAVES HIS OFFICE

(By Associated Press.)
PEKING, June 13.—President Li Yuan-Hung, with a hostile army of his countrymen at the gates of his capital, ready to enter if he refused to vacate his office, yielded to the pressure of the militarists today and left Tiensin on a special train.

General Seng Yu-Shang, military inspector of the metropolitan area, had threatened to invade Peking unless the President left. President Li made a spectacular dash from his residence to the station in a motor car, the training having been prepared for such an eventuality. It pulled out immediately.

The vice minister of war and a few faithful adherents waved goodbye to the President.

EXAM SET.
A clerk-carrier civil service examination will be held at the Decatur postoffice soon, according to F. M. Robertson, lately appointed secretary of the examining board. There is time yet to register.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

THE ROSY HOPES OF THE DEMOCRATS.

That the Democrats will win back control of the Senate which they lost in the phenomenal landslide that elected President Harding in 1920, seems more than probable to the political forecasters in Washington. According to Senator Pat Harrison the seat of every Republican Senator who comes up for re-election this year is in doubt.

On the other hand he says but two Democrats are in any real danger, Walsh of Massachusetts and Walsh of Montana. These two Senators, he said, would be re-elected but they face hard fights in their home States, while the ten Democratic Senators from Southern States are certain of re-election.

This optimistic view of the Democrats as the fight opens, is confirmed by the pessimistic inter-view given out recently by Senator Moses, a member of the Republican Senatorial Committee. He says:

"The Republican Senatorial Committee is not at all comfortable over the out look. We will throw all our forces into the struggle which we must make to retain control of the Senate. We will bend every effort to reassure the election of a Republican to succeed the late Senator Knute Nelson. I am willing to concede that the Democrats will be elected in ten States, all in the South. There is some doubt as to whether they will elect the successor of Senator Stanley in Kentucky, or Senator Owen in Oklahoma. My hope of success in those States is not as great as it is for success in Massachusetts and Montana, where Senators are to be elected to fill the seats occupied by the two Walshes, but it will be no easy fight to beat either of these.

"At present it looks as though we are going to have a hard fight in electing Republican Senators in New Jersey, Delaware, Illinois, Minnesota, Colorado, New Mexico, South Dakota and Oregon, where the Democrats secured victories in the elections last year."

This, we submit, is cold comfort to be handed out to a disheartened and discouraged political organization on the eve of a great fight. Political confidence is made of sterner stuff. The promise of the recovery of control by the Democrats of the Senate, opens up the prospect of the establishment by the Democrats of control and supervision of America's foreign policy.

It is promise, too, of a revival of the issue of the League of Nations, which if the Democrats control, will be substituted for the Republican's proposal of a world court. It will also be a distinct promise of a Democratic victory in the Presidential year of 1924.—Montgomery Advertiser.

A lot of people who don't know the modern farmer are doing just a little too much worrying about the wet weather. ## Van Loon Only Modern Author In Newest Home Book List

What books must be in American homes in order to make home libraries "ideal" in the opinion of college presidents, librarians, editors and others to whom Americans are accustomed to look for intellectual guidance?

Two agencies are now trying to answer that question, the National Council for Better Homes in America and the U. S. Army Library. The Council has asked the cognoscenti of the country to suggest a list of 200 books for the "ideal" home library, while the Army Library independently has made up a list for the soldiers.

Already an agreement has been reached upon a few books. Some time in June the "ideal" list will be announced by Mrs. William Brown Meloney, Secretary of the National Council, but the first twenty books on the list are: The Bible, Shakespeare's plays, Van Loon's "Story of Mankind," "David Copperfield," "Les Miserables," "Mother Goose," "The Crusades," "Two Years Before the Mast," a dictionary, Boston Cooking School Cook Book, Emerson's Essays, Home Book of Verse, "Our Republic," "Vanity Fair," "The Ordeal of Richard Feverel," "A Vagabond Journey Around the World," an atlas, and "The Care and Feeding of Children," by Dr. Emmet Holt.

The one modern non-fiction book agreed upon by both institutions as essential is Van Loon's "Story of Mankind."

Luther L. Dickerson, librarian in Washington in charge of the Army Library, announces that the traveling libraries for the officers, enlisted men and their families include the "Story of Mankind" and Wells' "Outline of History," classics such as "David Copperfield," "Lorna Doone" and "The Three Musketeers," and some popular fiction.

By the time the list of 200 books for the "ideal" library is announced another book by the author of the "Story of Mankind" may be included, "The Story of The Bible."

Mrs. WILLIAM BROWN MELONEY, Secretary National Council for Better Homes which is Seeking Ideal Home Library.

Hendrik Willem Van Loon is now finishing his story of the Bible at Cambridge, England, in the house where Erasmus finished his great version of the Bible. His publishers expect soon to bring out the work.

That he believes such a book is necessary in his own home is indicated in a letter to his two boys, Hansje and Willem, in which he says: "For many years little boys of your age have been frightened away from it by the solemn faces and forbidding attitude of those who believe that the Holy Volume has been entrusted to their particular care. And yet, you never can be thoroughly educated without knowing these stories."

World's Highest Residential Building

THE Shelton, now under construction on Lexington Avenue, between 48th and 49th Streets, New York, will stand 888 feet, 85 stories, above the pavement—making it the highest residential building in the world. It will be a modern city home for men, not only of New York but from other cities whose business brings them frequently to the metropolis. It is to be unique in more respects than size.

While falling within the hotel class, the building has been conceived by its owner, James T. Lee, as a city club house having every facility, comfort and convenience which bachelors require in a club home. He and the architect, Arthur Loomis Harmon, have planned what is said to be the largest and most complete living house for men in the world.

While in no sense an altruistic undertaking, Mr. Lee says the Shelton is an attempt at providing the best possible conditions for men living alone in New York, at the lowest possible price, and in the most convenient location.

A swimming pool, 25 by 75 feet, and a complete Turkish bath equipment will be in the basement. Other basement space is to be devoted to bowling alleys. On the thirty-first floor are three standard, championship squash courts. Billiards, card

Water Strength Measured.
By actual experiments it has been ascertained that the explosive power of a sphere of water only one inch in diameter is sufficient to burst a brass vessel having a resisting power of 27,000 pounds.

Wisdom From Sterne.

Memory is like a purse—if it be overfull that it cannot shut, all will drop out of it; take heed of a gluttonous curiosity to feed on many things, lest the greediness of the appetite of thy memory destroy the digestion thereof.—Folier.

Drove Through Ghost.
One dark night when I was driving along a lonely road, my horse became frightened and refused to proceed. In looking ahead to discover the cause, I saw a ghostlike figure standing in the middle of the road. Believing that someone was trying to frighten me, I whipped the horse and attempted to run the joker down. I was very much surprised when I ran my horse completely through the ghost—a dense pillar of fog rising from a mud puddle.—Chicago Journal.

Filling Cracks.
If a cheap deal cupboard or table has developed severe signs of wood shrinking, fill the cracks with the following mixture: Shred up some newspaper into very small pieces and boil it with glue until the whole becomes very stiff. Fill the cracks while the mixture is still hot, and paint over when the filling is set and cold.

Draco's Laws.
Draco's laws were enacted by him while he was Archon of Athens in 621 B. C. They were said to be written in blood, they were so strict. Idleness was punished as drastically as murder. Solon's code supplanted them.

Not So Prosy.
"My husband is simply a manufacturer of waste paper baskets," said a guest at dinner, "and it is a very prosy occupation." "Yes," asserted an unappreciated bard seated next the speaker, "but then a great deal of good poetry goes into waste paper baskets after all."

Worth Thinking Over.
Half the misery of human life might be extinguished, would men alleviate the general curse they lie under, by mutual offices of compassion, benevolence and humanity.—Addison.

Strength That Counts.
Most men do not lack strength, rather the will to use it, and knowledge how best to apply it. Physical strength needs the will to decide and the brain to direct, to insure use that will prove profitable.

How to build up your Weight

TO be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become a plus.

That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The Size of China.
China is larger in area than the United States, Mexico and Central America. It has four times the population of all South America, almost equal the population of all of Europe and one-quarter of the population of the world. The Yangtze delta, with an area about equal to Illinois, has a population of 40,000,000, about 800 to the square mile.

Condensed Milk Preferred.
Sweetened condensed milk, diluted with hot water, has won a place as a highly esteemed drink among the Chinese of the Swatow district. They prefer this mixture to the excellent fresh milk, containing a high percentage of butterfat, available from the water buffaloes and other cattle maintained in considerable numbers by the farmers.

Amusements

Henry B. Walthall, the old time screen favorite, once more graces the screen as a star, in the Warner Brothers' production, "Parted Curtains," which will be shown at the Princess Theater, Wednesday.

The career of Mr. Walthall on both stage and screen has been long and varied, and his greatest triumph was made in the Griffith production, "Birth of a Nation." Probably few screen actors have enjoyed the popularity that was and still is Mr. Walthall's. His forte is primarily strong character parts, and in his career he has essayed hundreds of roles, from an underdog slipping in the byway of deserted streets to an aristocrat mingling with captains of industry.

Most of our present day stage and screen stars have gone through a long period of training in stock companies. This, among stage folk, is the apprentice shop and finishing school that either makes or breaks a person desirous of attaining fame in the theatrical world. Mr. Walthall came thru a number of stock companies with flying colors, and after a short period on the legitimate stage he entered the ranks of the screen players. This was during the early days of Mary Pickford and other present day screen celebrities. In his latest starring vehicle he plays the role of an ex-convict formerly the financial secretary of a well-known artist's club. The circumstances that brought about his downfall were due to his efforts to tide over the financial difficulties of a chum. But when the tide of reckoning comes to pass, he finds the friend unfaithful. How he finally fights his way to success and happiness after an enforced existence among the derelicts of society, is said to form the basis of an engrossing picture play.

Mexico's Longest River

The Santiago river in Mexico is the longest in that country. It rises near Mexico City and flows northwest to the sea, emptying near San Blas. In the canyons 2,000 feet below the level of the surrounding plain, the Indian farmers find a super-tropic climate along the river banks where they plant their crops. The climate here forces vegetation as might an "artificial hot-house."

Specialization

This is preeminently the day of specialization. It is true in business as in the arts, the sciences, and the professions.

Railroading is particularly a specialized business. In fact, solving the problems of the railroads since their beginning has as much as anything else helped to bring about this age of specialization.

These problems encountered in construction engineering, for example, have been worked out by the brainiest engineers in the world. They have tunneled the mountains, spanned the rivers, leveled the grades, and have overcome all the innumerable obstacles met with in making as nearly perfect as possible the physical properties of the great railroad systems.

The financing of railroads has likewise developed captains of industry—great railroad builders whose problem was to obtain the money necessary for laying tracks through virgin forests and over vast deserts so that the railroad might be ready to provide the service of transportation so essential to the national progress.

Another great division of railroad effort requiring experienced and capable executives has been that of management. The executive of these great arteries of commerce is like a general having an army under his command. This general must employ thousands and thousands of men of various grades of intelligence and train them into a loyal, active, efficient force.

In railroading almost every kind of work requires training and knowledge. Think of the skill and experience necessary to drive one of the long passenger trains across the continent at a speed of 60 miles an hour. Think of the great care and attention, the constant vigil and daily inspection necessary to maintain the track in perfect condition so that these lumbering trains might speed across the distances with their precious freight free from discomfort and in perfect trust.

Railroads are operated by capable, efficient, and highly trained men who have spent most of their lives in the business. Many of these men could secure more lucrative employment elsewhere but they are content to devote their energies to this work thereby performing an essential service for the benefit of the public and the prosperity of the nation.

In this age of specialization the railroads are in the hands of specialists, and these vital channels of trade should not be interfered with by people who do not know the railroad business.

POOR MR. OWL

MR. OWL is a very wise bird, all the wood folks know, but when he lived of Mr. and Mrs. Woodpecker he was looked upon as being wiser than they.

Mr. Owl had been kept awake all day and nearly all night and the next day, by hammering of the Woodpeckers, who had chosen to make their home in the tree where he lived and he was sleepy and cross—Mr. Owl was, I mean.

"Can't you people stop that noise for awhile and let a fellow sleep?" he asked. "I have to be out at night to make my living and here you folks hammer away all day and last night I was so sleepy I could not go out, though a body could not sleep for your noise."

"We are going to finish our house," said Mrs. Woodpecker. "We build our own home. We're not like some folks I know, take the leavings of others."

For a minute Mr. Owl did not reply to this hard thrust of truth, for it was a well-known fact in Woodland that Mr. Owl often took the nest of Mr. Crow or even that of Mr. Squirrel, so he blinked a minute and then said: "Are you going to stop that hammering tonight or not?"

Mr. Woodpecker let his wife do all the talking and she replied that if they finished their work they would stop, otherwise she would go on hammering until the place was as deep as she wanted it.

Mr. Owl could not see very well, but it seemed to him there was much more hammering to be done before

Forrest's Muster Roll is Discovered

(Nashville Tennessean)

The last muster roll of General Nathan Bedford Forrests, famed things were as Mrs. Woodpecker wanted.

Now Mr. Owl had heard Mrs. Wren and her husband chattering on a limb of the tree that morning about finding a place to live because two very rude sparrows had taken the place they had the year before and though they had scolded and threatened they were not able to make the sparrows move out.

"I will tell them about this place," thought Mr. Owl. "The hole they have now will be plenty big enough for the Wrens and they won't hammer my head off as these noisy creatures are doing."

It was not easy for Mr. Owl to get about in daytime but he managed to find Mr. and Mrs. Wren and told them about the fine place they could have if they could drive away the Woodpeckers. "I am sure you can do this when one of them flies away for dinner," said Mr. Owl. "You know they never stop that hammering, for one stays on duty while the other is away."

Mrs. Wren was so excited she could not keep quiet and as soon as Mrs. Woodpecker flew away over went the Wrens, flying straight into the eyes of astonished Mr. Woodpecker, chattering and flapping their wings until he was glad to leave the tree.

It did not take Mrs. Wren a second to inspect the house while her husband stood guard outside. "We will take it," she said, poking out her head, and though it was a noisy battle they had when Mrs. Woodpecker returned with her husband the Wrens kept the house.

"Now I will have a little peace," said Mr. Owl solemnly, and all the birds around who had been watching said, "O wise Mr. Owl, how very wise you are indeed."

But alas and alack for Mr. Owl's well-laid plans for peace, in a few days he was holding his ears to shut out the scolding chatter of Mrs. Wren, for he did not know that she was a bad scold.

Mr. Owl knew better than to try to get Mrs. Wren to move. He disliked a quarrel anyway and well he knew he would get the worst of it if he complained of her noisy chattering.

So one night he took his belongings under his wing and silently went away to find another home far from hammering woodpeckers and scolding Mrs. Wrens.

(By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Tennessee Confederate cavalryman used by him in the dying days of the Civil War, now rests in the archive at the State Capitol. John Trotwood Moore, state librarian, is responsible for the valued acquisition.

Recently Mr. Moore visited the place of his birth, Marion, Ala., where he went again over the scenes of his childhood days with early playmates. It was while talking with J. O. Bailey, a Confederate veteran and boyhood friend of the archivist, that the former drew forth the old muster roll and presented it to Mr. Moore with the statement that now, in his declining years, he wanted his old friend "Johnny" Moore, to have it for preservation.

The muster contains the muster of General Forrest's command after the Battle of Selma in the declining days of the Civil War, and has listed in the back of the ledger the names of several hundred soldiers as "absent without leave" and deserters.

Indications are that the book was captured from the Union army, abandoned by it, as General Forrest had changed the reading from "Regiments of U. S." to "Regiments of C. S."

At the same time Mr. Moore was presented with a Forrest cavalry bugle said to be the only Forrest bugle in existence, the gift being made by Tom Bailey, brother of the other donor. The relic was picked up by Mr. Bailey on the battle field at Franklin, Tenn., after he was almost mortally wounded and left for 18 hours as dead.

Lumber Is Bought For Negro School

Prof. E. L. Hays, superintendent of education for Morgan County, stated Tuesday that he had just paid for the last bit of lumber that is to go into the negro industrial school annex at Hartsville, and that by fall the new structure would be ready for use.

"The new building is to be one story with a basement," said Prof. Hays. It will have four regular classrooms on the main floor and in addition an office and a library. In the basement there will be two industrial class rooms in addition to other rooms there."

Prof. Hays stated that money for the new school building was secured from four sources, the people of Hartsville, the state of Alabama, the negroes themselves and from the Julius Rosenwald educational fund.

Prof. Hays explained that Julius Rosenwald every year set aside thousands of dollars to the erection of negro school houses.

It was stated a new negro school will be erected near Valhermosa Springs in the eastern part of Morgan county before very long.
